Financial Research Associate

The Financial Research (FinRes) group provides research and analysis support for the entire investment life cycle of the firm's global proprietary trading strategies. The group caters to almost all the quantitative and qualitative strategies of the firm, and its research support covers multiple asset classes, sectors, and geographies. We are looking for resourceful candidates to join our Financial Research group based in Hyderabad/Gurugram/Bangalore.

What you will do day-to-day:

As a Financial Research Associate, you will be responsible for supporting our firm's traders/analysts on investment research requests and critical and recurring data-intensive tasks. You will build and manage large financial data sets, conduct data and information research, summarize industry/company conference calls, and facilitate engagements with in-house expert resources or subject-matter experts. You will collaborate with the in-house technology team to automate processes to achieve optimal efficiency.

Who we are looking for:

The ideal candidate should:

- Be a final year student from an undergraduate program in any discipline with no current backlogs
- Have a keen interest in finance, a highly analytical and creative mindset, and a desire to learn and take on a new challenge
- Be a self-starter with an impressive ability to synthesize information, an inquisitive attitude, and an inherent interest in financial research
- Exhibit attention to detail and the ability to think unconventionally
- Have excellent written and oral communication skills
